OTTAWA - The lid was torn off the Mussinger inquiry Mon-day with evidence that Gerda was a prostitute who once spied for the Russians and who had an "illicit sexual relationship" with former as-sociate defence minister Pierre Sevigny.

The inquiry was also told the bombshell was on a "first name basis" with former trade and commerce minister orge Hoes and "a former coutive assistant to a cab-t minister."

It was alleged she was also you connected with the Mintreal underworld and that sayone involved with her "was a prime target for blackmail by Montreal racketeers."

AFEW YEARS AGO, when he was a carefree bachelor of 28, Jacques Bélanger purchased a $10,000 Jubilee profit-sharing policy from London Life. This particular policy gives him life-long protection but requires premiums for only twenty years.

Mr. Belanger summed up his feelings in a recent interview:

"My first Jubilee policy is proving to be an excellent investment"

At age 48, he will have paid all his premiums -a total of $6,240. When he reaches age 65, his savings in this policy will total $18,701. Triple the money paid in.

(Note: This $18,701 is made up of $7,420 in guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. While dividends are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend payments. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1966 exceed $30 million.)

Shortly after his marriage, Mr. Bélanger bought a second Jubilee policy. This one is for $15,000 and has premiums to age 65.

He added one extra feature, called "income continuance." If he should die, his wife would receive the $15,000 plus $100 a month until 1985. Income until the children are grown. (These benefits are in addition to the other insurance

While Mr. Bélanger knew he could not triple his investment with this second policy (because he was older when he bought it), it does build impressive savings. At age 65, this policy will give him $17,430 in guaranteed cash value and accumulated dividends (based on the current scale). And, of course, he has acquired the added protection he wanted for his family.

With the help of his two London Life policies, Mr. Belanger is now on his way toward a comfortable retirement. Below are three of the choices he will have at age 65:

(a) The protection can be continued and his savings will keep growing.

(b) The savings ($18,701 and $17,430) can be withdrawn as a lump sum.

(c) The savings can be used to purchase an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Since Mr. Belanger is a very active man who has spent many years in the hotel business, he may wish to take his money as a lump sum and invest in a hotel. His London Life investments give him freedom to choose.

The man on the Expo site is doing a little constructing of his own-with London Life policies:

"I suppose each person has different needs. But London Life seems able to tailor to the need."

The story of Jacques Belanger is not unusual. It simply shows how a man can protect his family and save money for retirement.

Easing the Climb

JUST OVER A YEAR ago this newspaper suggested that to ward off serious inflationary problems in the British Columbia construction industry, some form of overall planning and programming was needed to spread over a longer period the work that was coming in such a rush in the boom of the mid-1960s.

"Required urgently at the moment," the Colonist said then, "is a strongly supported movement to spread out the construction jobs so that the dangers of insane competition for workers who do not exist is this time awarted.

"It is to be noted that in the case of B.C. Hydro it has spread out its construction work for the Peace and Columbia projects over a period of nearly 20 years during which time fairly steady jobs will be provided for the firms and their workers who take on the

"This is the type of planned economy which does something to avert the traditional theory that every boom must be followed by a bust."

Now the provincial government appears to be on the verge of setting a land in this respect. Premier Bennett has warned that unless some way is found to curb climbing costs, work on the nuseum and archives complex being built in Victoria as a centernial memorial may have to be spaced over a longer period than originally intended. Furthermore he mys the government is willing to delay any project but the Peace and Columbia power developments to put a brake on the rise of costs, if the industry and its workers will not exercise more restraint of their own. (It will not be the end of the world, incidentally, if the museum is not finished in 1967, if Duncan goes without its new courthouse for some time longer, or even if a Victoria regional vocational school recedes still further into the future, disappointing as such de-even if a Victoria regional vocational school recedes still further into the future, disappointing as such delays would be. But it is certainly to be hoped that the premier would not contemplate postponement of accommodation for the mentally and physically ill of the province, such for instance as the mental hospital to be built beside the Royal Jubilee Hospital.)

It remains now to be seen if Mr. Bennett's warning will be of effect in bringing about a show of restraint in the industry, or, this falling, if a curtailment of the government's building program alone can produce the desired effect. It may be that some form of province-wide planning, involving private enterprise as well as government, is the only answer to the boom-and-bust trend.

An Artists' Corner

THE APPARENT enthusiasm with which the local art world has accepted the urge to exercise their talents on the plywood hoarding around various construction jobs, as well as the crowds of onlookers it has generated, indicates that further and more permanent values may be obtained from this type of artistic endeavor.

It has been suggested, and the minister of public works is understood to be interested to the stee of the new provincial museum there should be some space reserved for what would become an artist's preserve—a spot where local talent could work and exhibit in public.

spot overlooking Thunderbird Park would be well suited to such a purpose and it would no doubt provide a new tourist attraction in the provincial precinct. The fact that some established artists have regarded the hoarding painting as something out of their "class," should not dampen enthusiasm.

Quebec City is one which successfully caters to its artists in this way, and provides many of them with a ready market for their work to which they otherwise might not have access.

There is little reason why an artists' corner outside the new museum should not be equally successful, and it is a feature which could be added without raising the costs of this building still further from

Color on the Ice

CANADIAN VIEWERS who follow the playoffs in what is still called, euphemistically, the National Hockey League, may have been puzzled by the difficulty in following the puck in Sunday afternoon's (morning's here) Montreal-Detroit game.

The reason is, apparently, that the ice was "blued" for the benefit of colored television viewers on the National Broadcasting Corporation's networks. This technique produces a better background for colored viewing than white ice. But it does not improve the picture for the black-and-white screen audience. Or so many of the long-time followers of the game maintain.

There is emerging, too, the suspicion that Hockey Night in Canada, so long a popular feature of the CBC's programming, will be lost. The management of the National Hockey League may be disposed to accept Saturday afternoon programming if that is what the National Broadcasting Company wants, in the interests of lucrative television contracts in the expanded league roster.

Montreal and Toronto may oppose such a move, and there is a possibility of taping their home games for rebroadcast in American cities which now hold the majority of franchises in the NHL.

Montreal Canadiens have indicated their resistance to the Sunday afternoon performance by insisting that if a seventh playoff game between them and Detroit Red Wings is necessary that it be scheduled for Saturday night. Canadians, particularly in the West, will hope it will not be the last of such enter-tainment which for so long has been the seasonal highlight of the week for so many.

For Gorge coach Larry De-Costa, Lee's success was something of a repeat performance. DeCosta himself was the allstar goalie in 1954, and Graeme Cowx, one of DeCosta's other pupils, got the call in 1963.

Gorge Beautification Backed by Province

The provincial government has allocated $96,000 for a start on the much-talked-about beautification of the Gorge Waterway, it was learned Friday.

Everett Brown, chairman of the Capital Improvement District Commission which resommended the project, said the money would be spent to build a shoreline park and prometade between Craigflower Bridge at Admirals Road and Colquitz Avenue.

Red Ledger Closes Pacific Club

By DON GAIN

The Pacific Club—oldest private club on the Pacific Coast—closed its doors Monday night.

At an extraordinary general meeting the membership voted to close the club temporarily to try to pull it out of the red.

The executive was given the power to negotiate to sell the club building, real estate and chattels, in a last-ditch

The club has been plagued by financial troubles for years, and has also been losing members.

"The club was over-financed from the time it moved into the new building," R. F. Allen, president, said at the end of Monday night's meeting.

He also blamed lack of interest of the members. "I think it's a sign of the times," he said. "You don't find young executives spending time at their clubs the way they used to."

At one time, membership numbered 300. When the club closed, the membership was said to be 180. There were about 40 members at the extraordinary meeting.

"We have every intention of trying to start a new club," Value of the club has been appraised as high as $200,000. If the executive succeds in selling it for more than the liabilities, the club may re-open in another location.

The Pacific Club opened at its new quarters at Wharf and Fort Streets in the fall of 1964, in the old B.C. Cement Building which was built in 1863. The building had been completely renovated. An elegant dining room, the Chandelier Room, was installed on the second floor as well as a banquet room, the two joined by a modern kitchen gleaming with stainless steel.

A members' lunchroom was built on the same floor, with a card room and a reading room on the floor above.

The Golden Room, a lounge for ladies, and the Barrel Room, a bar and lounge, were installed on the main floor. Dark mahogany panelling and attractive furniture in muted tones gave the club an air of casual elegance.

"I never thought I'd see this," Mr. Allen told the meeting Monday, "but I hope that in 10 years we'll look back on it as just a bad time."

The Pacific Club name came into being in 1894, but the club can trace its beginnings to 1885, when it was born as the Victoria Club. It was reorganized nine years later as the Pacific Club. Its premises burned in March, 1909, along with many of its treasures, and it moved into the floor of the Yarrow Building at that time the Pemberton Building in 1810 as the first tenant.

The club moved out of the Yarrow Building in the fall of 1963 and opened up at Fort and Wharf a year later.

Funeral Chapels

Victoria EV 3-7511

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a female, aged 20, a sophomore at a large midwestern university. I'm writing about something that is bugging students on every campus in the country. We are demanding emancipation from the unrealistic and hypocritical rules designed to inhibit our sexual activity.

A group of crusaders for sexual freedom took a blind poll of our dorm last week. The question was: "Are you a make-out or a hold-out?" Each girl was asked to check A or B. (We wanted to insure honest responses so we didn't ask for signatures.) Well, 85 per cent of the girls said they were make-outs, while 15 per cent siad they were hold-outs. This poll suggests that the vast majority of college girls have already made that decision so what do the school authorities think they are saving us from, anyway?

Some sterling characters would school authorities think they are saving us from, anyway?

We believe each girl must decide for herself where to draw the line or IF she wishes to draw a line at all. We also believe that dorms, both men's and women's should be open to members of the opposite sex, day and night.

Why drive students to expensive motels, rented rooms, the beaches, or worst of all—into uncomfortable care? If our minds are made up we will find a place—and you can bet on it.

We need backing from people a place—and you can bet on it.

We need backing from people like you. Please help us to persuade college administrations to treat us like mature adults. It is not only absurd, but degrading, to be policed as if we were 12 years old.—MY NAME IS LEGION

Dear Legion: You don't need to tell ME that when your minds are made up you will find a place. I get dozens of letters every day from girls who have found the place. They ask me to help them to find ANOTHER place. A home for unwed mothers.

Corvair-the sports car you can depend on...anywhere. (and you can depend on a great deal, too).

One of the nicest things about '66 Corvair is the confidence it inspires as you head for anywhere you like. It's the dependable sports car . . . the sporty family car. The one that gets you there and back again with a minimum of fuss and a maximum of fun. Corvair's dependability and handling superiority have been proved over and over again in the roughest rallies and the most critical road tests.

Motor Trand's Road Test summed it up this way: "Corvair was very stable at high speeds. Even unpaved and gravel surfaces didn't leave any doubt that Corvair has the superior handling of a car bred for performance driving." Car Life calls Corvair

"one of the better-handling production sedans in the world". And the readers of Car and Driver voted Corvair "the best compact sedan" for the 3rd suc-

What's Corvair got to earn such praise? Plenty. An air-cooled rear engine that does away with a complicated cooling system and delivers plenty of power and traction in snow, mud or sand. A fully independent suspension that makes each wheel soak up its own bumps so you ride smoother, And a Corvette-type rear suspension that keeps those driving wheels glued to the road for stability and handling you have to experience to believe. Like to drive Corvair for yourself? Now's the time. You see, this is Car Buyers' Field Days - so your Chevrolet dealer has plenty of Corvairs in stock. You can compare a 140-hp, 4-on-the-floor Corsa Convertible with a 110-hp, Powerglide-equipped Monza Sport Sedan or with a 500 Sport Coupe with the standard 95-hp engine. Every Corvair is a Sports Car - every Corvair is a Family Car. You'll get immediate delivery . . . plus top dollar for your trade-in and a great deal on your new Corvair.

Now, isn't it time you did something about sports cars, family cars and fun? Sure is, because your Chevrolet dealer can give you a great deal on a spirited, sporty, un-temperamental Corvair. Come

G. HAYWARD, Municipal Clerk of the Corporati District of Saan

I've been preaching for a long time I've been preaching for a long time now the advantages that accrue when the ground is prepared a long time ahead of the actual planting or sowing dates. Most flowers, shrubs, trees and vegetables do far better when the soil has been dug over some weeks in advance and has had time to lmit itself together again.

Potatoes, however, are the exception to the rule, and there is no reason why your seed spuds shouldn't go in as you dig, prforming the digging and planting operations at the same time.

Put in a row of tubers or seed pleases

Put in a row of tubers or seed pieces four inches deep, making the rows 30 inches apart and spacing the seed 12 inches apart in the row. Any manure, compost, peat moss or half-rotted leaves can be tossed in on top of the seed before the rows are filled in. This is one of the best treatment. I have a raiset of the best treatments I know against scab and the matreial doesn't even have to be completely rotted. You can use rough, half-decomposed compost or material from that pile of leaves you raked up last fall.

If you pre-sponted your seed potatoes, using one of the methods I prescribed in this column earlier this year, the shoots emerging from the tubers should be short and stocky, and of a good dark green or purplish color, all ready to make good growth. Where small, whole seed tubers are being planted, it is a good idea to this out these shoots, rub-bing off all but the two strongest sprouts two stems, you get more eating-size potatoes at harvest time and fewer of those infuriating little ones, so difficult to peel.

In planting either whole small seed tubers or seed pleces it isn't necessary to stand them up on ead, sprouted end uppermest, for they will come up even if planted upside down. Correct placing, however, will bring the shoots to the surface a day or two sooner.

A little chemical fortilizer in the rows will give a higher yield, but never scatter dry fertilizer over the tubers or seed pieces as you plant. The stuff is caustic, and may burn off the emerging shoots. Cover the seed with a genreous layer of your rough compost, half-decayed leaves or rotted manure first, then dust with fertilizer. Make sure you use a garden fertilizer, not a lawn food, or you may get all leaves and no spuds. One common error is the placing of masure or fertilizer deep down under the seed pieces, in the belief that the roots will reach for it and will be attracted deeper into the ground. Petato roots are formed, not underneath the seed tuber but on top, where the sprout emerges from the tuber or cut piece.

These roots, too, do most of their travelling sideways through the soil. Furtilizer and organia litter, therefore, should be at the same level as the need pleas, or in the case of dry chamical fertilizer, a little above the seed, so it will be carried down to the roots in the soil water.

During the war years, a lot of my potatoes had an unpleasant soapy flavor when they reached the table, and I think this was due to the fartilizer, in which suphate of potash, then in short supply, had been replaced by muriate of potash. Since them I have always examined the label on the fartilizer sack before I start spreading the stuff.

Fertilizers containing their potant in the muriate form work quite satisfactority for almost all crops except pointoes—and roses—which seem to have an allergy to this chemical.

Bomb Prices Rocket

WASHINGTON—There seems to be a shortage of bombe and other equipment from the Second World War which are needed for the present engagement in Viet Nam.

defence department had to buy back a number of 750-pound bombs from the Germans. The bombs were sold to the Germans for $1.70 each and bought back by the U.S. for $21 each.

The Pentagon isn't talking about it but a world-wide search is going on for American war surplus and just the other day a colonel showed up on the island Mona Loren in the South Pacific, which had been a U.S. army base in the Second World War.

He was greeted by the chief of the Mona Lorens, who was wearing an army shirt, a pair of Marine dungarees, army boots and an air force hat with goggles.

"Welcome to Mena Loren, Great White Bird," the chief said. "We have not seen your kind since the savages of the Rising Sun threatened to engulf us with their yellow peril."

"Yeb, well all that's forgotten now, chief. How's the old island doing."

"The Quonset huts are holding up well, but the tents are starting to leak. Have you come to give us more surplus?"
"No chief, on the contrary we thought we might move some of this junk out of here for you, so you would have more

"To do what?"

"Put in urban renewal. That sort of stuff. Let me ask you chief, you still got those bombs around that we left behind?"

"Oh, yes. Many bombs are still on island."

"That's fine. I'm happy to tell you that we've been worrid about your safety for the past 19 years and we've decided to remove them so no one will get huxt."

"Very good, Smiling Eagle. How much are you paying for them?"

"Well, we hadn't intended to pay for them, but I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll give you a box of chewing gum for each one we take away."

"Wait a minute, most Honorable Brass. The Germans were here a few weeks ago and offered us $3 a bomb."

"Well, we'll give you $3.50 a bomb just to show there are no hard feelings."

"You are indeed generous, Great White Spit Polish. But the French came a few days later and offered us $5.50 a bomb, plus green stamps."

"This is ridiculous," the colonel said. "After all, they were our bombs in the first place."

"Yes, of Star Spangled friend, but the day your army left our happy island I asked the commanding officer as he got on board the boat what I should do with all the army equipment and I'd hate to repeat what he told me to do with it."

"All right, we'll give you $7.00 a bomb and that's as high as we can go."

"Alas, Dear Uniformed Liberator. The British were here just two days ago and offered us $10 a bomb, plus a gross of Beatle records."

"What else has been to see you?" the Colonel said

The Egyptians, the Israelis, the Cubans, the Malsysians the Pakistanis, the Indians, the Greeks, the Turks and the Rhodesians. The last bid on the bombs was $43.50. Tell me something. What the hell is going on out there in the world?" "Never mind. Okay, we'll pay you $50 a bomb. And that's

Judy Displays Old Magic

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—It took Judy Garland all day and late into the evening, but she finally completed her share of the Hollywood Palace TV show in which she is pertured with Van Johnson and which we will see May 7. Judy's temperament was showing all day, but as soon as she performed, the old magic was back. As of going to press, new groom Mark Herron had moved back into the marriage, but for how long, I wouldn't be guessing.

Things are looking better for Van Johnson although he has about given up on establishing a friendly relationship with his pretty daughter Schwier. She simply has no time for him, and Van has now ascepted the situation. His career is looking brighter, much brighter. He has signed for two films, The Sweet Nights of Spring which he will make in Italy. And Divorce American Style, to be made in Hollywood where, he aims to live again in spite of the delay in getting a divorce from long estranged wife Evie . . . In the summer Van takes to the road in Music Man and Bye Bye Birdie. He has turned down a Boardway show for mext meason, preferring to return to Hollywood where he catapulted to fame in the early 40s.

Why doesn't somebody write a good movie for Jame Wyman? Why is everything written for mi_dle-aged male who won an Oscar playing Pilar in For Whom the Bell Tolls and then disappeared from films, is in London to star in some joby plays like Oedipus Rex and Hecuba. Without being asked, Katina told the British press that she is 65 years old. They don't usually wait to be told.

"I've started asking for a percentage," Oscar winner, Julie Christie, the darling of Darling told me. And she won't be making William Holden's mistake. Or rather Bill's agent's mistake. They thought they were so clever when they asked to have his percentage of Bridge On the River Kwai pald to him at the rate of $50,000 a year. His percentage to date has totalled $3,500,000, and he'll have to be 130 to get it all. From the interest alone on this sum, Columbia Studio is receiving $200,000 a year, leaving them with a profit of $150,-000 after paying William his measly $50,000. You never really know what is the right thing to do, do you?

Learence Harvey, to return to Darling, made a bit more than $1,000,000 from his 33½ per cent of the film. So Larry is rich again. The last time I chatted with him in London, he had lost $250,000 through the mismanagement of a business associate. I hope he looks after his new fortune himself.

Ray Stark seems to be moving his production company to Columbia. Which means that Barbara Streinand will be at Columbia for the film version of Funny Girl . . . Did you know that Michael Caime's real name is Maurice Mickiewhite? It really wouldn't look as good on the marquee.

While the Boulles are beating the bushes for a suitable picture to make, the Belling Stenes, are gathering no moss. They will soon start filming, Back Behind, and In Front. The hold-up for the B's is that they want to play characters the third time out, not themselves. I prefer them as themselves.

Because helping plan balanced estates is his business! As a trained, professional life insurance specialist, he knows that a balanced estate will always include a logical life insurance program. And, by the same token, he knows that personally tailored insurance can be recommended only through knowledge of the other elements of an individual's estate.

Try him out - ask him a question on the organization of your estate. You can expect a knowledgeable, objective answer, either personally or through one of the many informative sources available to him.
